

A woman in a black skirt and high heels is standing on an office chair at a desk. The chair is a grey ergonomic office chair with a five-point base and casters. The desk is light-colored wood and has a telephone, a printer, and some papers on it. The background shows a wooden office cabinet and a potted plant.

Think a paper cut is the worst thing that can happen to you at the office?

Working together to make SASKATCHEWAN a safer place to work.

Last year, over 40,000 people reported work-related injuries in Saskatchewan – every one of which could have been prevented.

The fact is, even one workplace injury is too many. It's up to every employer and every worker to help us achieve our goal.

Zero injuries. Zero fatalities. Zero suffering.

WorkSafe SASKATCHEWAN
Safety · Health · Well-being worksafesask.ca